MEN WHO HELPED MAKE PORTSMOUTH

Brief Sketches of Their Lives, Which Should Be An Inspiration to All; Opportunities In Portsmouth for the Hard-working, Conscientious Young Man Just As Good As Anywhere Else In The World

CLINTON M. SEARL

A descendant of a family of lawyers, Clinton M. Searl is following the traditions of his family, by practicing law in the firm which is an outgrowth of the one his father founded years ago.

Mr. Searl is a native of Portsmouth, was born here, May 7, 1879, and attended the law school at the University of Michigan receiving his B. L. degree in 1902 when he was admitted to the practice of law in the State Courts of Ohio and Michigan and in the Federal Courts.

Returning to Portsmouth in 1902 Mr. Searl began his law practice with his father, the late Judge F. C. Searl, later associating himself with the late Judge Noah J. Dever, from 1903 to 1906. In 1907 Mr. Searl became a member of the law firm of Milner, Miller & Searl, and following the death of Judge Milner in 1918 the firm name was changed to that of Miller and Searl as it stands today.

In addition to his law practice Mr. Searl serves as a director of the Central National Bank, the Provident Savings & Loan Company, and the Vulcan Last Company. Mr. Searl's club affiliations are with the Masons, the Elks, in which order he has been the presiding officer of the local lodge and a member of the grand lodge and the Spanish American War Veterans and the Portsmouth County Club. During the World War he was a member of the Legal Advisory Board of Scioto County, Ohio. He is a member of the Advisory Board of Mercy Hospital and is interested in the civic development of the city. In January, 1923, Mr. Searl was married to Jessamine H. Church.

He considers that Portsmouth affords increasing opportunities for a business or professional career to any young man or woman, and that the growth of the City of Portsmouth is due largely to the civic pride of its citizens, which is justified by its large diversified manufacturing interests, its large wholesale and retail stores, its railroad and river service and by no means the least important asset, the high standard of its newspapers by which it is estimated and ap-

Daugherty Probe To Be Started At Once

MIAMI, Fla., March 3.—(By the Associated Press.)—Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty will send a message to President Coolidge late this afternoon "which may be considered important," he said at the Nautilus Hotel here today. He refused to divulge the nature of the communication.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 3.—(By the Associated Press.)—Members of the Daugherty investigating committee devoted their time today to working on a plan of procedure for the inquiry into the attorney general's administration.

The investigation, which was authorized Saturday by the senate after two days of intensely bitter discussion, is expected to get under way without delay, and in the opinion of some will vie with the oil inquiry in its ramifications.

The members had before them today the request of Attorney General Daugherty's personal counsel, Paul Howland, of Cleveland, and former Senator George E. Chamberlain, of Oregon, for the right to examine witnesses. Senator Brookhart, of Iowa, the Republican insurgent who was elected chairman of the committee by the senate, feels that the inquiry should not be conducted as though it were a trial but along lines to bring out all facts, taking evidence and running down charges as they develop. He and Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, author of the investigation resolution, already have a large amount of information and correspondence with which to start the investigation.

Mr. Daugherty, the chairman asserts, will be given a fair hearing regardless of what course it takes.

MacDONALD TELLS FRANCE BRITISH FEAR PARIS TACTICS

LONDON, March 3.—(By the Associated Press.)—Premier Ramsey MacDonald's second letter to M. Poincare, published today, sets forth some of the apprehensions regarding France's policy held by numerous Englishmen and those fears the French premier in his reply endeavored to allay.

Premier MacDonald's letter says that the people of England "regard with anxiety what appears to be the determination of France to ruin Germany and dominate the continent without consideration of our reasonable interests and future consequences to a European settlement; that they feel apprehension of the large military and aerial establishments maintained by France."

MacDonald expresses hope that the report of the expert committees on German reparations will draw France and England together. If co-operation can be reached, he says, "it will be possible for us to approach the United States, not as debtors, disputing one with the other, but as a united Europe anxious by mutual sacrifice and arrangement to cure the ills from which our people are now suffering."

Veteran Railroad Man Prevents Wreck

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 3.—(By the Associated Press.)—A gray-haired veteran railroad man last night stopped the Pennsylvania Railroad Manhattan Limited west bound, after it had passed over a broken rail and the rear end sleeper was derailed and bumping over ties on the edge of an embankment.

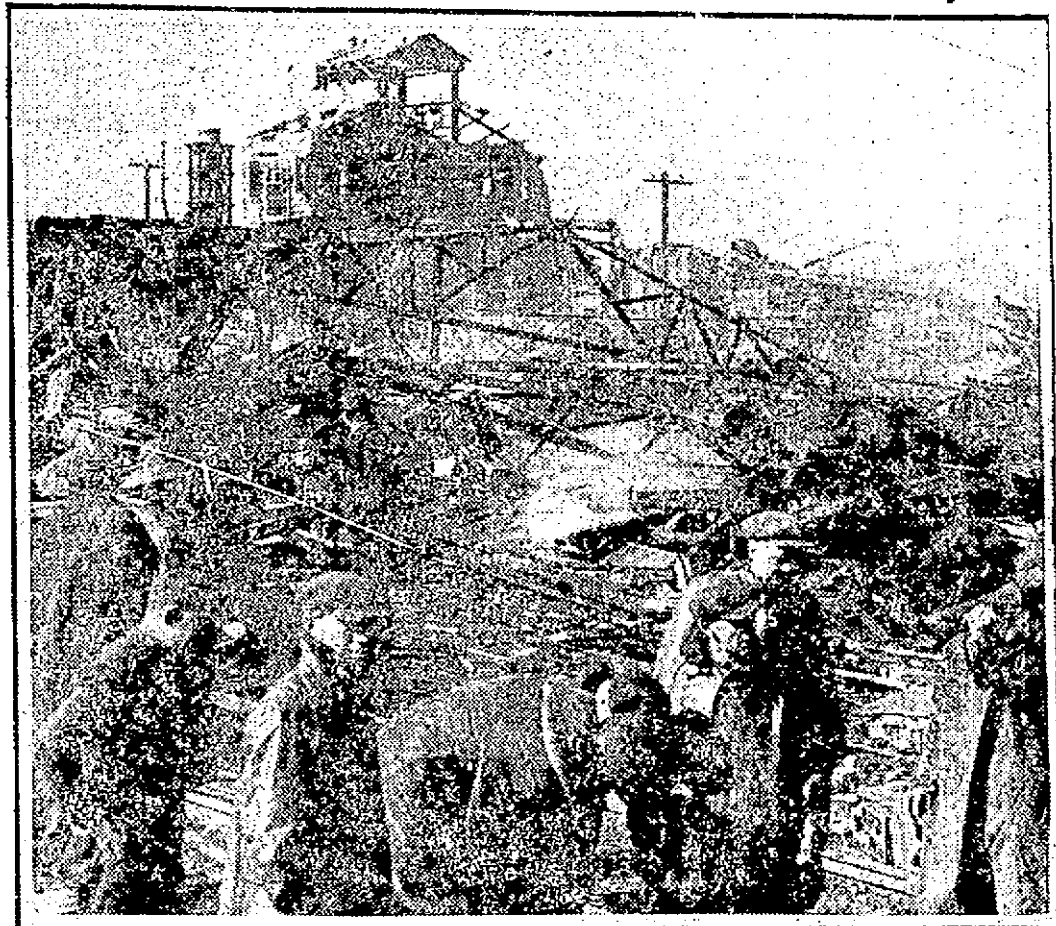

The derailment occurred about two miles west of Downingtown. The crew did not know of the accident until the veteran railroad man who had been toppled from his berth, jerked the emergency cord.

The derailed car was abandoned and its passengers transferred to a dining car. The passenger who stopped the train refused to give his name.

Salesman Perishes In Train Wreck

BALTIMORE, Md., March 3.—(By the Associated Press.)—S. W. Gehring, of Lynchburg, Va., a salesman, was killed, and seven other persons, five of them women, were injured in an accident to Pennsylvania Railroad Train No. 970, near here last night. The train, bound from Buffalo to Washington and consisting of ten cars, was derailed on the bank of Lake Roland, Brightside Station. Five of the coaches left the track. Two of the cars turned over. Officials of the railroad today attributed the accident to spreading rails. The injured were brought to Baltimore hospitals.

Rescue Parties Were Formed Quickly

Aid came quickly to the many injured in the explosion of the Nixon Nitration Works plant at Nixon, N. J. Photo shows one of the rescue parties caring for injured. It also shows close-up of the tangled mass of wreckage. It was believed the number of dead would reach two-score.

British Labor Cabinet Will Do Nothing Radical or Stay In Power Long, Says Simonds

(By Frank H. Simonds)
(Copyright, 1924, by Times Publishing Company)

LONDON, March 3.—"What will Labor do? and 'How long will Labor last?' These are questions which must have immediate interest, not only in Europe, but in America. To answer them to complete satisfaction, moreover, is neither easy nor, in a sense, possible, because the present situation is not only novel and practically unprecedented in British history, but it is also palpably unstable. All British observers agree that anything may happen, nothing is assured.

Accepting these limitations, however, always bear in mind the essential detail that Labor counts less than a third in the House of Commons. It is still possible to record the following expectation as representing public opinion in England at the present hour.

First, Labor will do nothing very striking or particularly original; it cannot and does not expect to attempt anything radical for a considerable period of time, at least. In the second place, the MacDonald ministry will last any where from six months to a year. Its expectation of life, as the astuteness say, seems to be increasing rather than diminishing. Finally, when Labor is forced to resign, it is most likely to go down because of internal differences and pressure from the extreme radicals within the movement, compelling the cabinet to champion radical measures, like the capital levy or nationalization of mines. 4 Airmen Perish

LONDON, March 3.—(By the Associated Press.)—Four airmen were killed and three others injured in two crashes at different airfields in England today. At Duxford, Cambridge, two airplanes approaching an airfield collided and crashed to earth. Sergeant Bunt, the pilot, and Officer Peck were killed in one machine, and Lieutenant Albrecht and a passenger were seriously injured in the other.

An airplane got out of control and fell, Officer S. W. Smith and Sergeant Lister were killed in the crash and the mechanic was injured.

Nurse Kills Self

CLEVELAND, O., March 3.—(By the Associated Press.)—Rachel E. Farmer, a nurse, entered a bath room in the apartment she shared with three other nurses, and shot herself in the right temple this morning, according to the police. She died an hour later.

A longing to return to her home at Wichita, Kas., and despondency because she lacked money for transportation, prompted the act, other nurses told police.

Pacific Fleet Visits New York

NEW YORK, March 3.—(By the Associated Press.)—With the flagship Seattle showing the way, the ten battleships of the Pacific fleet steamed up the Hudson river today to pay New York its first visit since July, 1919.

Admiral Cough, commander-in-chief of the entire United States fleet, was aboard the Seattle. Other high officials were Admiral S. S. Robinson, commander of the battle fleet; Vice Admiral H. A. Wiley, commanding the battleship divisions, and Rear Admirals W. C. Cole, L. A. Bostwick, W. V. Pratt and L. M. Nulton.

The visiting vessels are the California, making its initial appearance in New York harbor, the Tennessee, Maryland, Colorado, West Virginia, Arizona, Idaho, Mississippi, New York, Texas, and Nevada.

About 800 officers and 12,000 enlisted men are aboard.

SWEEPING DECISION IN LIQUOR CONTROVERSY

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 3.—(By the Associated Press.)—State laws prohibiting the possession of intoxicating liquors acquired before national prohibition were sustained by the supreme court.

The Supreme Court today declared that the United States government deposits in failed banks are not entitled to preferential payment.

The question was raised by the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company after failure of the Bank of Commerce of Okmulgee, Okla. The supreme court affirmed the decision of the lower court.

South Dakota's oil inspection law was today sustained by the supreme court.

The decision of the lower court was affirmed. The constitutionality of the law had been attacked by the Peterson (H) Company of Dell Rapids, South Dakota, on the contention that it interfered with interstate commerce.

OPEN HEARING ON SOLDIER BONUS BILL

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 3.—The House Ways and Means Committee began hearings today on soldier bonus legislation.

The committee's study will be based on the McKenzie bill, similar to the measure vetoed by President Harding, and several proposals to make the principal form of the bonus payment a "buyback" life insurance policy.

The McKenzie bill provides four options; adjusted compensation based on the number of days served by veterans; vocational training aid; farm and home aid; or adjusted service certificates embodying the insurance feature.

Representative Buchrach, New Jersey, a Republican member of the committee, announced a plan yesterday to restrict the bonus to endowment life insurance policies limited to enlisted men and payable at the age of 62.

Representatives Andrew, Massachusetts, and Fish, New York, Republicans, also have introduced bills making the principal form of the bonus a "buyback" life insurance policy. The main feature of the proposed bonus, Mr. Andrew, like Mr. Buchrach, would exclude officers from benefits from the bonus, while Mr. Fish would limit the payments to men below the rank of captain in the army and marine corps, and of lieutenants in the navy as provided in the McKenzie bill.

Cardinal Mercier Denounces Germany

BRUSSELS, March 3.—(By the Associated Press.)—Cardinal Mercier has issued a pastoral which alludes to the after war disappointments, including the general impoverishment of Europe and the governing of great forces by the pretensions. He denounces Germany for her "evil determination" not to pay the allies, for organizing fictitious bankruptcies, making any generous more on the parts of the victors out of the question and for provoking economic perturbations, responsibility for which she falsely played upon the allied governments.

"Meanwhile, until Germany pays," writes the cardinal, "we must work out our own salvation."

He urges all classes to reduce expenses, limit speculation and remain confident as during the war.

Senate To Tear The Whole Tax Bill To Pieces and To Re-Write Another Measure

(Copyright, 1924, by David Lawrence)
WASHINGTON, March 3.—The administration tax bill now goes from the frying pan into the fire. Too many cooks—an unwieldy House of Representatives—spoiled the Mellon plan, and the measure which now goes to the Senate is so scared and burned that nobody can claim it is satisfactory as it stands.

Both Republicans and Democrats as well as President Coolidge and Secretary Mellon expect a better bill to come out of the Senate.

But the Senate is bound to tear the whole tax bill to pieces and rewrite the House measure. The temporary coalition between the insurgent Republicans and the Democrats did not succeed in passing the plan offered by Representative Garner, Democrat, of Texas, but it did succeed in defeating the Mellon schedule of rates. The difference between the Garner plan and that which was finally adopted by the house on the suggestion of Representative Longworth, of Ohio, Republican leader, is not very substantial. In principle the Longworth plan is much the same as the Garner proposal because both ignore the argument of Secretary Mellon to the effect that high surtaxes are needed and can not be collected.

On reaching the higher incomes—especially over $200,000—there is only a slight difference in the effect of a 37 1/2 per cent surtax presented by Mr. Longworth as compared with a 44 per cent (Continued on Page Three)

Socialists Nominate

CLEVELAND, O., March 3.—(By the Associated Press.)—Joseph W. Sharts, of Dayton, editor of a Socialist publication, was nominated for governor on the Socialist ticket at the state convention of Socialists here. A complete slate was to be put in the field by the party. The platform adopted voices opposition to the Ku Klux Klan and the state constabulary, and endorses workmen's compensation, shorter working day and old age pension.

Two Arrests Made in Ironton Holdup

Special to Times
Ironton, O., March 3.—Two young men of this city giving the names of Clyde Henry, aged 20, and Emory Brown, aged 19, were arrested at Charleston, W. Va., early Sunday morning.

They are accused of taking part in the holdup pulled off when Grover Wm. A. Foit of Park and Spring streets was shot in the back Saturday night. The holdup has been removed from Foit's truck and he is expected to recover.

Henry and Brown told the police here that the third member of their gang did the shooting, but refused to reveal his name. He is said to be an Ironton man and local police are camping on his trail.

The three young men, police say, entered the Foit store and demanded the proprietor to turn over his money to them. As Mr. Foit turned his back to the men and attempted to enter a nearby room leading to the rear of his store, a gun barked and Mr. Foit felt to the floor wounded.

Frightened by the gun-play, the three men dashed out of the store without getting a penny. They jumped into their waiting Ford and lost no time in crossing the bridge over the Ohio here. The police soon got a line on them and Henry and Brown were nabbed just after their driver rolled into Charleston. The two young men were questioned and then this morning by Chief of Police Ross Blackwell, but they steadfastly refused to reveal the name of the third member of the party.

Can Is Never Opened Until It Reaches the Kitchen

Commercially canned fruits and vegetables are taken direct from the fields or orchards when they are in the right condition of maturity, and it is but a few hours until they are prepared, canned and cooked. This message comes to us in observance of National Canned Foods Week, March 1-8.

At the time the food is growing on the tree, stalk or vine, the greater part of it is cooked and safely stored in the warehouse. A small part may be allowed to wait longer than the above minimum, but seldom longer than the day's run, for each day's picking is put up before beginning a new crop. Modern canning factories not only put up fresh, clean food, but the can itself is first sterilized by washing with live steam before the food goes in.

After the fruits, vegetables, and other products are put in the can, the can is sealed air tight, and it is then that the food is cooked. The sealed cans with fresh food inside them are put into retorts and cooked at a high heat and under steam pressure until the contents are sterilized.

The can is never opened after cooking until it is opened in the kitchen of the consumer, miles away, and maybe months later, but it opens up almost as fresh and tender as the day it was taken from the field.

Dr. Lowry Who Passed Away in Ironton Was Well Known Here; Funeral Tuesday Afternoon

Relative to the death of the late A. C. Lowry, the Ironton, Ohio, capitalist and widely known throughout this section, passed away at his home on south Fifth street about 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon after an extended illness, which became acute about four weeks ago when he suffered a stroke while at the Marting hotel.

Dr. Lowry was born March 4, 1870, in West Virginia and after completing his education entered the Louisville Medical College from which institution he was graduated, later taking a post graduate course in New York City. On February 10, 1897 he was united in marriage to Miss Nellie Marting, daughter of the late C. H. A. Marting, and for more than 20 years was actively engaged in the practice of medicine in this city. He retired some years ago due to his failing health and devoted his entire time to his business interests.

Dr. Lowry was interested in many industrial propositions. He was the first booster for an adequate hotel in this city and his activity was largely instrumental in forming the Ironton Hotel Company and the subsequent construction of it. The deceased enjoyed the confidence and esteem of all who knew him, and his friends were numerous. No children were born to the marriage of Dr. and Mrs. Lowry and the widow is left to mourn the loss of a loving husband.

He is also survived by his father, Lee Lowry, of Lowry Farm, near Kells Hill; one sister, Mrs. Alice Barger, also of Lowry Farm, and one brother, Dr. J. W. Lowry of this city. Another sister, Dr. Sadie Lowry, died a few years ago.

The funeral services will be held at the home Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock by Rev. Blume and Rev. Hampton.

This might prove almost anything. Rudy has been away from the screen for some time, so that his return is something of an event—like the birth of twin giraffes or breakfast in bed.

This Hiram Johnston Does Not Want to Run for President

SAGINAW, MICH., March 3.—(By the Associated Press)—Hiram Johnston, United States senator from California, an avowed candidate who carried Michigan in the 1920 primary, has declared in a letter to Secretary of State Charles Dandridge in which he stated that his name was withdrawn as a candidate on the Republican ticket to be voted upon in the Michigan presidential preference primary election April 7.

Johnston, an aged dirt farmer, was placed in nomination by petition proposed by friends and neighbors. His name threatened to cause considerable confusion in the minds of voters because it is almost identical with that of Hiram W. Johnston, United States senator from California, an avowed candidate who carried Michigan in the 1920 primary.

Johnston wrote that he has no ambition to participate in national politics and expressed embarrassment that his name should have been used.

There is some question whether the secretary of state is empowered to remove the Johnston name from the ballot, the time limit for withdrawal having expired Saturday. If Johnston's letter was in the mails before the expiration of the time limit, it is believed that fact would be considered in conformity with the law and permit withdrawal.

That story repeatedly has been denied by all of those in a position to speak authoritatively.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 3.—(By the Associated Press)—J. N. Carrothers, former state prohibition officer, today pleaded guilty in common pleas court to a charge of giving $100 to W. H. Wilson, another dry agent, for the purpose of having Wilson destroy evidence to save a friend of Carrothers from prosecution.

Carrothers was indicted, on other charges, including one of himself accepting bribes, but the prosecutor decided to press only the charge involving Wilson. Every seat was taken in the court room long before court opened today.

Treason Trial Proceeds
MUNICH, March 3.—(By the Associated Press)—The Ludendorff-Hitler treason trial eased its way along with the hearing of minor witnesses today. On Wednesday former Dictator Von Kahr and General Von Lossow, commander of the Reichswehr in Bavaria, were to be heard.

The court today took considerable testimony concerning the guns, ammunition and other supplies intended for Hitler's army, and it was intimated by one witness that the leaders of the November putsch with consequences of which this trial is dealing had possession of a large amount of arms, which were the property of the Reichswehr.

Mystery In Shooting
GOSHEN, IND., March 3.—(By the Associated Press)—Harry L. Whitmer, 32, only son of Mrs. Lincoln J. Carter, wife of a May producer, was shot and killed in his home here early today. Police said Mrs. Whitmer told them she and her husband were retiring late and that he had preceded her upstairs. She heard a body fall and rushing to the second floor found her husband's body with a bullet hole in the head and a revolver that had been in the home fifteen years, by his side, according to her story to the police.

Mr. Whitmer was president of the Goshen Sash and Door Company. His business, his associates say, was prosperous. A coroner's inquest will be held today.

Senate

surtax proposed by Mr. Garner. The argument of the treasury department has been that not until surtaxes have been reduced to approximately 25 per cent will the large investors get away from tax exempt securities to taxable investments.

The Republicans in the House have adopted a bill which contradicts the Mellon principle and judging by the informal assertions from the White House, this is such a material change that a presidential veto would not be surprising. To say so, however, at this time is not considered discreet, for the administration to rally its forces in the Senate and push the surtax rate down from 37½ per cent, at least as far as 30 per cent. The Democrats, on the other hand, will wage their fight for the Garner plan which has been adopted more or less as the Democratic program. The insurgent Republicans in the Senate are not as quick to yield as were the insurgents in the House and the Western Senators who will join the Democrats are not as easily intimidated or as likely to be disturbed, whether the tax bill as passed by the Senate bears a Democratic or a Republican label.

The House Republican leaders made their compromise and won over the insurgent Republicans on the plea that the bill going through the House should bear a Republican label, so that the country would not have the impression of a Republican disunity. To gain that point, the Republican leaders sacrificed the Mellon plan and the administration acquiesced largely in the hope that the Senate would rewrite the bill. That plan, however, the insurgents who will desert their party's proposal are not up for reelection this autumn as are all members of the House, and therefore the influence of party regularity is not as strong.

The only hope for a surtax rate lower than that passed by the House lies in the possibility of a break in the ranks of the Democrats. The same hope was indulged by the administration in the House but the Democrats stood unswervingly by the Garner plan. Judging by the speeches which have been made in the Senate thus far, there is a tendency to support the Garner plan among the Democrats and no Democratic Senator has as yet declared himself for the Mellon rates.

The Senate Finance Committee conference will hold extended debate and when the bill finally emerges from the Senate for conference between the two houses it will be a radically different affair from that which was just passed by the House. Then will come protracted discussions in the conference committee in an attempt to reach a compromise once more and President Coolidge will finally be presented with a bill the rates in which it is impossible at this moment to forecast, because they will be inserted as a result of continuous compromise.

Mr. Coolidge will veto the bill then only if he thinks that by so doing he can force Congress to amend the measure still further. The chances are it will be midsummer before the President will have a tax bill before him and it may be after the election before the fight is concluded, especially if Mr. Coolidge sends the bill back to Congress for further consideration.

British

are many questions, both foreign and domestic, on which there is a surprising amount of agreement between all three parties. Thus, Labor can wrestle with unemployment, with housing at home, with the Messing abroad and have the Messing, even the active assistance of its political opponents. The nation is dead against any new elections, there is no pressing attraction for either Tories or Liberals to struggle with heavy burdens with no promise of speedy or brilliant results at present. It is true, also, that while the oppositions have no present temptation to seize office, the general public, the man in the street, the masses of the country, seem deliberately resolved that Labor shall have a fair sporting chance to prove its abilities or its futilities.

Any attempt to turn Labor out on a frivolous or merely parliamentary pretext might have very disagreeable consequences in an undesired election which would certainly follow very quickly.

Minority in Power

Thus, oddly enough, although in a decisive minority in the House of Commons, the MacDonald ministry for the moment has a majority of public opinion insisting that it have its day in office. The more closely you come in contact with the present British situation the more acutely you feel that while the results of the last election seem superficially in a muddle and the electorate appears to have voted blindly and unintelligently, in point of fact they did accomplish just about what they set out to do. "Mind-dulling through" seems at close range to disclose an extraordinary amount of commonsense, at least this time.

Thus, for example, it is perfectly clear that the Tory party itself has recognized in the catastrophic defeat which it has undergone, the necessity of recognizing itself as out of touch with contemporary conditions, of winning back a fair share of the youth of the country, of appreciating more accurately the mind of the nation itself.

Further than this, it is a matter of common agreement that the present and modest situation, with three parties being only a two-party system to function with, cannot endure. It is, moreover, equally agreed that the Liberal party is doomed to disappear, that it will be open to right and left, that the right group will join the Tories, perhaps be absorbed, perhaps insist on some kind of fusion, while the left-hand group will go over to Labor unconditionally. Thus the old two-party system will be restored. Only very extreme partisan Liberals would dissent from this forecast.

If by any chance there were a new election before this Liberal disintegration took place, while the three parties made the race as happened last time, almost everybody holds the view that Labor might come back with a clear majority. On the other hand if the Liberal party broke up, there is the same conviction that while Labor might come back in a minority, it would still gain anything from sixty to ninety seats and would be finally established as the opposition; this would mean that ultimately Labor would come back to power on its own.

MacDonald Stronger Than His Party
Labor's most valuable asset at the present hour is undoubtedly its leader, the actual Prime Minister. He is vastly stronger than his party, while still the strongest of party leaders. He has patiently the respect and confidence, even in a desecrated the attention of a surprising number of people outside of his own party. His health, however, has become a matter of public anxiety. He has taken burdens which no other Prime Minister has shouldered for at least a century and a quarter. If his health should break, Labor would hardly survive in power, even briefly.

Considering that the present government party is on the whole the least homogeneous of the three, the task of leadership, the necessity of keeping together extremists, moderates, socialists and real conservatives — for there are many in the Labor party — must be never ending task.

Personally I had a very interesting indication of the strangely inharmonious character of the Labor group when I attended a debate in the House of Commons over the question of air defense. The front benches of the Labor party, some ministers of the Labor party, were accepting without real qualification the programme of the outgoing ministry. Between the official spokesman and those of the opposition there was no discernible difference of declared policy — although there was at heart. Cellophane of the opposition was thus directed at the time, not the content of the government's statement, but suddenly there arose from the Labor seats lack of the ministers a storm of disapproval. The essential pacifism of the rank and file of the party suddenly flew to arms against the apparent militarism of party leadership. After a furious debate the Labor ranks with laughter over the not inexact characterization of the Tories, perhaps be absorbed, perhaps insist on some kind of leading the Radical Party." Labor Well Fortified To Handle Main Problems

Labor's main problems are those of the nation itself, unemployment, housing. It is probable that Labor has among its cabinet members men and women better calculated to deal with these questions than any other party, but the main difficulty is to find the money. They cannot advocate heavier taxation; unless it undertakes sweeping reductions in military expenditures, it can hardly find the cash it needs. Given the present state of Europe, very general national apprehension was aroused by the French air strength, moreover it can hardly go far in reducing national armament without inviting Liberal and Tory attack alike.

After all, then, even to accomplish anything in the domestic field, the Labor party will be compelled to concentrate its best energies upon finding a solution for foreign questions, above all for bringing about some general European adjustment. That is why MacDonald has kept foreign affairs in his own hands; that is why up-to-date his most conspicuous gestures and utterances have been directed abroad, particularly toward France. If he can negotiate materially to European settlement, he may stay in power a good while and in the end accomplish much at home; but his fate, like that of his predecessors, turns on foreign affairs rather than domestic.

Tory Party Needs New Leader

MacDonald faces a difficult problem of party leadership, his situation is not peculiar, for the Tory party is also in an uncomfortable situation. Its present chief, Stanley Baldwin, was not a shining success in office; his blunder which brought about the recent election, the utter blindness of pre-election calculations, have certainly lowered his prestige. He has been overtaken by party leadership but it still remains fully possible that eventually he will be replaced by Austen Chamberlain or even Sir Robert Horne, familiar to Americans by reason of his recent visit to the United States. Chamberlain of the Exchequer in the coalition government. As for the Liberal party, it has a long tradition and a considerable number of able members, but the real question seems to be whether it will split up at once or decay slowly. As for the familiar American interrogation about the future of Lloyd George, the answer seems to be that his future still remains in the past.

The former Prime Minister sits beside Asquith in the Liberal commons, but his own personal popularity has dwindled to almost nothing. In the excessively remote contingency of a Liberal government Asquith, not Lloyd George, would be Prime Minister. If, moreover, the Liberal party should break up it is hard to see where Lloyd George could go with distinction. Labor wants nothing of him on any terms, the Tories are vastly more bitter towards him than toward Ramsay MacDonald. So long as the Liberal party lasts he has shelter. Of course, his ability, his relative youth, make it foolish to forecast his permanent exit from power, yet at least temporarily he is, in the American phrase, "down and out."

May Last a Year

To sum up, then, to measure Labor prospects by the present state of opinion in this country, the MacDonald cabinet will last from six months to a year, it will undertake nothing fundamentally radical until it decides the moment has come to surrender office. Its one chance of large success lies in the foreign field. Most of the things which it might achieve at home can only be achieved following a foreign settlement which makes possible a saving of money now devoted to national defense.

In a word, then, yesterday out of power, Labor was in revolution; today in office it is the government. Yesterday it was attacking the old parties with all the enthusiasm of a new movement, today it is facing the old problems with an ever numbing sense of responsibility.

What the United States Senate did to Borch when it made him chairman of the committee to investigate the Russian question and thus deprived him of the position of critic of Hughes on Russian non-recognition policy, the British nation has somehow done to the Labor party. At all events the motive in one case, instinct in the other were the same, the results may not be dissimilar. The Tory contention is that Labor means to be conservative now while it lacks a real majority, thus inspiring confidence; later when it obtains real power it will disclose the cloven hoof of extreme radicalism. This may be so, but other Tories assure me that the mass of Labor, particularly the trade union leaders, are solidly conservative in all important issues.

At all events, the country remains extremely calm over Labor's arrival. One duke's son not, to be sure, a Laborite, has assured me of his pride in the character of the Labor ministry. I met at least one earl and half a dozen lords at Labor's first reception.

Other Cabinets to be Representative
The real change consequent upon the Labor government may not be any profound modification in form, rather, it may be that all future cabinets will be considerably more representative of all elements in the British population, on the whole less dominated by old names, by relatively few families. The change, moreover, will certainly be as marked in the Tory as in the Labor ranks, for just as Labor is now out to annex the lords, the Tories are seeking to lord the proletariat.

For the moment, the pendulum has swung over very far in the direction of the masses, of the industrial masses, so far as cabinet office are concerned, it is sure to swing back again, but hardly all the way. Thus, so far from indulging in any destructive revolution, it may turn out that the British people have only broadened the base of British democracy, which was of course really much broader than it seemed to a foreign eye.

The arrival of a new class, moreover, instead of smashing the democratic machine, at least promises together with new men and women to bring new energies, fresh vitality, in fact a real renaissance. I have tried to emphasize, before, that all that will be done, within the fixed limits of British tradition. Tomorrow will still be able to recognize yesterday without difficulty, although yesterday is definitely gone, which, I take it, is the British way.

Says New Method Heals Rupture

Kansas City Doctor's Discovery Makes Truss or Operation Unnecessary

A new discovery which, experts agree, has no equal for curative effects in all rupture cases, is the latest accomplishment of Dr. Andrews, well known specialist of Kansas City, Mo. The extraordinary success of this new method proves that it holds and heals a rupture. It weighs only a few ounces. Has no hard gouging pads, no elastic belt, no leg straps, no steel bands, and is as comfortable as a light garment. It has enabled hundreds of persons to throw away trusses and declare their rupture absolutely healed. Many of these had serious double ruptures, from which they had suffered for years. It is Dr. Andrews' ambition to have every ruptured person enjoy the quick relief, comfort and healing power of his discovery, and he will send it on free trial to any reader of the Times and Sun who writes him. He wants one person in each neighborhood to whom he can refer. If you wish to be rid of rupture for good, without an operation, take advantage of the doctor's free offer. Write him today.

What kind of pleasures have you chosen?

There are two kinds of pleasure: Some folks find a great deal of pleasure in buying dainty things to eat or wear, and in spending freely for various recreations. A reasonable amount of this kind of pleasure is worth while.

Others have chosen the "everlasting" pleasure. The pleasure of owning a roof over their heads; in educating their children; in preparing for emergencies, and in facing their old age without fear that they will be in want.

Those who have chosen the everlasting pleasure and are saving successfully with this strong Bank have chosen well.

General View of Wrecked Nitration Plant

Almost two-score persons were killed and about a hundred injured when a terrific explosion wrecked the plant of the Nixon Nitration Works at Nixon, four miles from New Brunswick, N. J. The concussion rocked houses within a radius of many miles and was heard as far away as lower New York City and Brooklyn. Photo shows general view of the wreckage, taken by an NEA staff photographer before the dust had settled. The explosion is believed to have started in the boiler room of the plant. All that remains of the boiler room is shown in foreground of picture.

AMBULANCES CARED FOR INJURED

Ambulances from Nixon and New Brunswick, N. J., were rushed to the wrecked plant of the Nixon Nitration Plant following the heavy explosion which took a toll of many lives. Photo shows one of them about to leave with the last of the injured. Most of the 150 men and women employed in the plant were lined up for the Saturday pay when the explosion occurred.

U. S. ORDERS NEUTRALITY IN HONDURAS

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 3.—(By the Associated Press)—Strictest neutrality as between the rival revolutionary movements in Honduras has been enjoined upon American naval commanders in Honduras waters.

Caliph's Harem Expelled; Ban Turk Pilgrimage

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 3.—(By the Associated Press)—All the members of the Caliph's harem are ordered to leave the city on March 15, in consequence of the movement for abolition of the Caliphate. Prince Orchan, grandson of the late Sultan Abdul Hamid and a student at Robert College, is on the list of those to be expelled.

The communique says that Turkey now at the Holy Places are being unlawfully detained and maltreated by the authorities of the Holy Places and that the flow of pilgrims would be endangered. The diplomatic correspondent of the Telegraph believes the real explanation of the warning is that Ankara is fearful lest the pilgrimage arouse the religious fervor of the faithful against the secularists and lead to trouble on their return.

HERE'S WHAT PEOPLE SAY ABOUT TANLAC

"If it had not been for Tanlac I would still be a sick, discouraged woman, for nothing else seemed to do me any good," says Mrs. Edward Gibbs

All the advertising in the world and the sales efforts combined could not have made the great success for TANLAC that has been attained, unless this reconstructive tonic possessed merit of the greatest degree. Over 30 Million Bottles of Tanlac have been sold and the demand today is greater than ever before.

That TANLAC possesses merit and has brought relief to hundreds of thousands of persons is attested by the great number of testimonials that have been received by the company from people in every state of the Union and every province of Canada. There are over 100,000 such statements on file with the company, all ringing with sincere praise for TANLAC and what it has accomplished.

Here are excerpts from a few of the 100,000 statements on file:

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Dolly—What do you think of a man who thinks more of his mother than he does of his wife? Dolly, he makes his wife live in the house with his mother, and he takes his mother's part all the time, and will not listen to his wife at all. The rest of her children are married and have homes of their own, and they won't let her come around and I have to put up with her. Dolly, she is so jealous, she will not allow her own husband to speak to his daughter-in-law. Dolly, what would you do with a woman like that? Make your husband move away or put up with her?

SPARK PLUG.

I have no fault to find with a man who loves and respects his mother, and a man who does this, is not going to mistreat his wife, if she is the right kind of a wife. I don't like to meddle in family affairs, and I don't like to pass judgment on you or your husband, without knowing more about the case. I will say, however, that you knew your husband had a mother, and you knew that he was the only one that took after her. Since you knew all this, why didn't you have the matter of where you were going to live, and how she was going to live, settled before you married this man? If the children who are married have done their share, I see no reason why your husband should not do his part now. His mother is old, and probably "set in her ways" and you will have to exercise a certain amount of patience in dealing with her. If you will get the idea out of your head that your husband thinks more of his mother than he does of you, and try to be as agreeable as possible, I think you will get along all right. Of course if you can't live together peacefully, I think your husband should arrange to occupy a part of the house, and let his parents have their part, or better still move into a house of their own. If the old folks need financial aid, I think the family should get together and give them a weekly allowance. If they will do this their parents will have enough to live on and the children will not miss the small amount they pay them each week. You will find it easy to get along with "in-laws" and everyone else if you have the slightest disposition to do so. To live with those with whom it is impossible to live, is one of the urgent necessities, the pressing obligations of living at all. To be frank, we do not, perhaps, we cannot like everybody, and of those we like, we do not, and cannot love them all alike. To pretend otherwise would be to deny the most familiar facts of everyday experience. We all have our times of unusual sensibility in our own dislikes. Our nervous depression may reveal it. As a matter of fact, if we were perfectly healthy and cheerful persons this number of those whom we consider irritatingly impossible would probably be much reduced. Dislikes, like other disabilities, are symptoms of an internal weakness to be met and overcome. Are you big enough to do this?

Dear Dolly—I would like to have a recipe for home-made fudge.

LITTLE BOY.

Easy Fudge—Two cups sugar, one-half cup of sweet milk, butter the size of a good walnut, flavor with vanilla. Grate chocolate in and cook until it makes a soft ball when dropped in water; pour on buttered plate and stir until hard.

Dear Dolly—I am coming to you to see if you can straighten out a little trouble I am having with my stepfather. Now Dolly, I am good about the house, and when my step-father comes in he starts to fussing at me and my mother. He is always threatening and saying what he is going to do, and I get awful tired of this kind of treatment. If I happen to stay up a little late at night he will give me a good rousing and he is always mad when I go any place. He never gives me one good word. Now Dolly, what do you think should be done with a man like that?

WORTHY STEP-DAUGHTER.

I think your mother should handle this man. She could give him to understand in a very few words that you are her daughter, and that if he could not speak to you in a nice kind way, he need not speak at all. You got along before this man entered your life and started trouble and you can get along now without him. If I were your mother I would tell him he would either have to behave himself and quit ranting around, or he could pack his little grip and move on, to where he came from. Life is too short to put up with the likes of him. So much for your step-father. Now a word to you. You did not say how old you are, but I imagine you are at the rebellious age (16 or 17) and you want to boss the whole works, including your mother and step-father. If you are this kind of a girl, you can't blame him for taking a hand and trying to manage you. Of course I think he is making a mistake in the way he is going at it. He should have a family conference with you and your mother, decide upon a program of recreation, and allow you a reasonable amount of privileges. Then quit fussing and screaming about it. The sooner these family quarrels are eliminated, the better it will be for all concerned.

NICK SAVES TIME

Nick hopped up and grabbed the huge minute hand.

Down the road of Branstalk Land went Nancy and Nick toward the red house where the giant boy lived.

They could still hear him crying, because, as he had also told them, he had to go to the dentist's with his mother at 10 o'clock.

"We'll fix it some way," Nick kept saying. "I don't blame him for crying. We'll fix it so he doesn't have to go."

When they reached the house the front door was shut, but they climbed through the key-hole without any trouble at all.

The clock on the mantel said exactly half-past 9.

At that minute Mrs. Giant came in and looked at the clock.

"My, my!" she exclaimed. "I didn't know it was so late! I shall have to be ready in 15 minutes to take Johnny to the dentist's, because it will take 15 minutes more to get there. I'll go right up and get washed and combed and change my dress and put on my hat."

No sooner had she gone than Nick whispered, "I know what to do, Nancy. We'll turn the clock back. Come on! This brick mantel is easy to climb."

So up they went, not only because they were good climbers but because the magic shoes were a wonderful help as well.

The next thing was to open the big front door of the clock. This was not so easy, but where there is a will there is a way, and the glass door swung open at last.

Nick hopped up and grabbed the huge minute hand, and with all his might, turned it back a whole hour.

Then they closed the clock again and hid behind a vase on the mantel. In a few minutes down came Johnny's mother.

"I'll have to call Johnny and wash his face all over again," she said. "I do wish he would behave and not be such a baby. He ought to know that if he wants any teeth when he gets old, he will have to have them kept in good order when he is lit."

Suddenly she stopped for she happened to look at the clock again. "Goodness alive!" she cried. "Is it only a quarter to 9? That's what I was wrong the last time. That's what it is to try to see without my glasses! Well, well, well! I have a whole hour, so I may as well take off my hat and sit down and sew until it's time to go."

So she got her sewing and was very busy for a while.

All at once the telephone bell rang and Mrs. Giant answered it. "I just wanted to say that as you and Johnny are an hour late, I can't do anything for him today," said the dentist's voice. "You'll have to wait until next week."

"I declare!" said Mrs. Giant. "It's too funny about that clock. I never knew it to be wrong before."

At that minute Johnny Giant came bursting in, crying because than ever. "Keep quiet, Johnny!" said his mother. "You don't have to go to the dentist's today."

"But I want to," roared Johnny. "Tommy Jumbo gave me a bite of candy and I have the toothache."

Nancy and Nick slipped down, and out of the house.

"I'll never try to help anybody again," declared Nick.

"I told you it was wrong," scolded Nancy. "But you wouldn't listen."

Captain Holmes, soldier and adventurer, returns to England, his native land, when war with Holland is declared. It is dangerous for Holmes to secure a commission in the English army because the name of Randall Holmes, father of the colonel, appears on the warrant for the execution of the late king.

The plague is spreading rapidly in London. A friend of the colonel, named Tucker, is arrested for plotting against the government. Because Holmes has been seen in Tucker's company, a warrant is out for his arrest.

His Grace of Buckingham plots with a rogue to abduct the beautiful actress, Sylvia Parquarson. Buckingham sends his man Bates to rent a furnished house in Knight Ryder street to which place the Duke means to arrange to have Sylvia carried by force.

ROW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"If things continue as at present, your grace should have no cause for complaint on that score. Soon the city will be the most depopulated spot in England. Already more than half the houses in Knight Ryder street are empty. I trust your grace is not thinking of residing there."

"Not . . . not exactly." His grace was frowning thoughtfully. "There's no infection in the street, I hope?"

"Not yet. But there's an abundant fear of it, as everywhere else in the city. This merchant in Fenchurch street didn't trouble to conceal the opinion that I was crazy to be seeking a house in London at such a time."

"No, pooh!" His grace dismissed the matter of fear contemptuously. "These city-frighten themselves into the plague. It's opportunist enough. It will serve to keep men's minds off the concerns of their neighbors. I want to sojourn on me in Knight Ryder street. Tomorrow, Bates, you'll seek this merchant and engage the house—and you're to acquire the tenancy of it in your own name. You understand? My name is not to be mentioned. To avoid questions you'll pay him six months' rent at once."

Bates bowed. "Perfectly, your grace."

His grace leaned back in his great chair, and considered his servant through half-closed, slyly smiling eyes. "You'll have success, of course, the purpose for which I am acquiring this house."

"I should never presume to guess any purpose of your grace's."

"By which you mean that my purpose baffles you. That is an admission of dullness. You recall the little comedy we played a month ago for the benefit of Miss Parquarson?"

"I have occasion to. My bones are still sore from the endeavoring I got. It was a very realistic piece of acting, on the part of your grace's cursed French groom."

"We'll introduce a more serious note into the comedy. We'll carry the last off. That is the purpose for which I require this house."

"It's a hanging matter."

"Oh, damn your silliness. A hanging matter! When I'm behind you?"

"That's what makes it so. They'll never venture to hang your grace, but they'll need a scapegoat. If there's trouble, and they'll have your instruments to pacify the rabble's clamor for justice."

"Are you quite mad?"

"I'm not only sane, your grace; I'm shrewd. And if I may presume to advise your grace."

"That would, indeed, be a presumption, you impudent rogue!" The Duke's voice rose sharply, a heavy frown wrinkled his brow. "You forget yourself, I think."

"I beg your grace's pardon. But he went on, none the less. "Your grace, perhaps, is not aware of the extent of the pest in the city over this pestilence. The cry everywhere is that it is a visitation provoked by the sins of the court. That's what the cunning Nonconformist preachers have put about. And if this thing that your grace contemplates . . ."

"Listen, Bates. If we are ill served on the one hand by the pestilence, we

Never Be Without It

Coughing at night is unpleasant enough to the person suffering from a cold and annoying to those who are kept awake by it. But what is worse is a child coughing. That is both unpleasant and alarming.

Clyde H. Benson of Marlboro, Virginia, writes:

"The Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is fine. My little girl had a bad cough. I got a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and gave her a few doses and she was greatly relieved. I think if any one ever used Foley's Honey and Tar Compound they would never be without it. If you want rest at night, especially where there are children, keep Foley's Honey and Tar Compound on hand."

name let us seek a breath of clean, cool, contentment."

"Fish! Here buccole. Like Dryden you're a pastoral mind. Well, well, be off to your sleep. We shall not miss you here."

Mr. Etheridge sat down and studied his friend, pursing his lips.

"And all this for a pride who has no notion of her kind? Let me perish, Bucks, but I don't know you."

Etheridge got up, and went to set a hand upon his arm.

"If you stay, and at such a time, you must have some definite purpose in your mind. What is it?"

"What was in my mind before you came to trouble it, I forget. To end the matter where I should have begun it, and he adapted three lines of Shakespeare."

"If of herself she will not love, Myself shall make her. The devil take her!"

Etheridge shrugged in despair and disgust.

"You're not only mad, Bucks," said he, "you're coarse. I warned you once of the dangers of this thing. I've no mind to repeat myself. But you'll give me leave to marvel that you can take satisfaction in . . ."

"Marvel all you please," the other interrupted him with a touch of anger. "Perhaps, indeed, I am a matter of marvel. I am a man who has consumed, burnt up by my feelings for this woman who has scorned and spurned and made a mock of me. If I could but leave in her virtue, I would go my ways, bending to her stubborn will. But virtue in an actress? It is as likely as snow in hell. So she indulges a cruel and perverse zest to torture a man whom she has scorned and spurned. He paused a moment, to gather his breath, and then he said, "I could turn the jade into a man from him with these two hands, and take joy in it. I could so. Or with this same joy I could give my body to the rack for her sweet sake! To such an object state have her wiles reduced me."

Firm, Plump Flesh!

MANY are the eyes that are turned to gaze with keen admiration on the well developed, healthy girl no matter where she may be—on the rapidly moving thoroughfare or gliding gracefully over the dance floor.

All eyes turn because we all appreciate the girl with the figure so firm and plump—the girl with radiantly red cheeks, cheeks that carry a touch of roses from nature's own garden—the girl with the sparkling eyes, keen and sharp— the girl with buoyancy and the swing of youth.

Not necessarily an out-of-doors girl. Just a girl with ever increasing blood cells. Just a girl filled with the vim and vigor of youth.

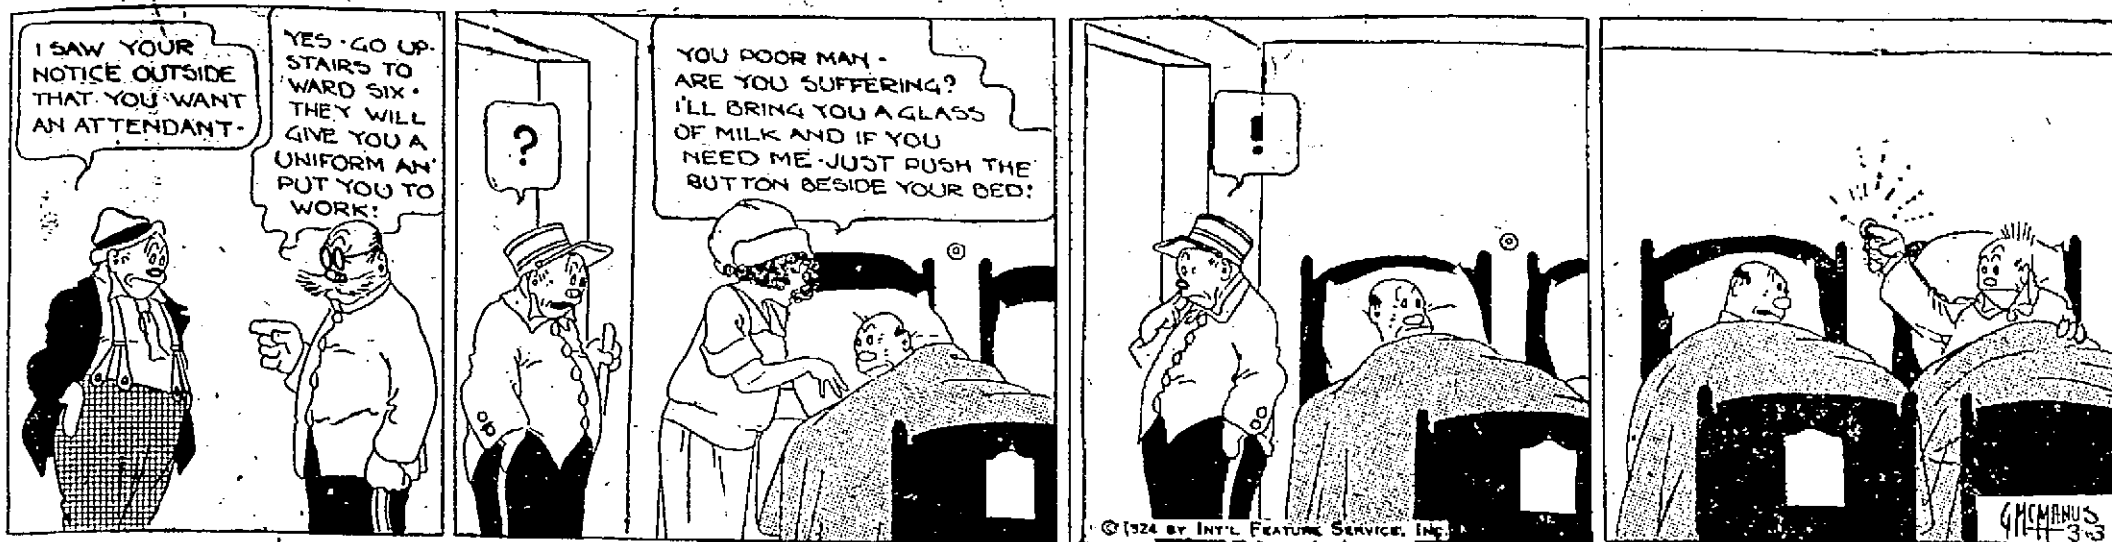

S. S. S., since 1836, has stood for increased blood cells. S. S. S. means restored strength—rekindled vitality—added energy. Take S. S. S. and watch the bloom of youth return to your cheeks. Watch that fatty, ill nourished flesh fade away before flesh that is firm and plump. Red blood cells will do it and S. S. S. will build them. It contains only pure vegetable ingredients. S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores. The large size bottle is more economical.

Ironton Man-Killed; Gunuser Surrenders

Special to Times
Ironton, O., March 3.—John Cokerell, aged 32, colored, occupies a cell in the city jail and faces a charge of second degree murder. He is charged with firing two shots into the body of Theodore Canoway, aged 28, early Sunday morning, Canoway dying while being conveyed to the Deaconess hospital. One bullet severed the jugular vein.

Cokerell, who has been a life-long resident of this city, will be arraigned today before Squire W. A. Burke.

The fatal shooting took place in a pool room which Lou Williams, colored, operates on Eighth street, between Adams and Jefferson streets, and was the culmination of an all night drinking bout, police here aver. The two men had an argument and were just about to leave the Williams place when it was renewed and ended in the fatal gun-play. Cokerell, who refuses to talk about the shooting, surrendered shortly after it occurred and is held without bail. Canoway was married and has a wife and child living on the New Castle Road, just west of here. Cokerell has a wife and four children.

Lou Williams, in whose place the shooting occurred, was recently injured in an automobile accident near Wheelersburg, in which two occupants were so badly injured that they soon passed away in Hempstead hospital.

Burns

William J. Burns, chief of the department's bureau of investigation, will be questioned by the committee tomorrow as to how employees of B. H. McLean came into possession of this code and whether McLean is on the roll of the special agents of the bureau at a salary of $1 a month. Burns also will be asked about the "Mary" code message sent to one of McLean's confidential men at Palm Beach in which reference was made to Burns and to the McLean investigation.

Mrs. Mary Duckstein, former secretary to Burns, and now operator in the department, who sent the "Mary" telegram to her husband, W. O. Duckstein, probably will follow Burns on the stand.

McLean may be called before the committee before the week is over. He returned from Florida early last month in response to a summons, but, unlike other persons under subpoena, he has not been required to make daily appearance at the hearings.

Preparations nearing conclusion today for the first step in the oil suits to be instituted by special government counsel as a result of the senate committee's disclosures, some announcement is expected tomorrow or Wednesday, but meantime, those preparing the suit will make no statement as to their precise intentions.

Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, presented to the senate today two letters for the purpose, he said, of showing the extent to which some of the "vested interests" of the country were going in an effort "to hamstring the character of Senator Walsh."

One letter, dated February 15, and signed by Fred R. Marvin, editor of the Seward Dispatch, Department of the New York Commercial, was addressed to E. C. Shields, of Billings, Mont., and said the writer wanted to get "the low down" on one Thomas Walsh, a senator from your state.

"To what extent has he been connected with 'Bill Dunn and the radical element'?" the writer asked.

"No one can give you the desired facts and remain within the realm of truth," Shields wrote in reply. "Walsh is not and never has been a Socialist. His ability and keen sense of justice prevents him from being a radical."

Parcel Post May Be Made to Pay Increased Salaries for P. O. Employees

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 3.—(By the Associated Press)—The Post Office Department is conducting an inquiry into its parcel post business. Assistant Postmaster General Stewart announced today, in determining whether that service can not be re-organized to bear the cost of increased salaries for postal employees.

Mr. Stewart appeared before a joint senate and house committee which is considering a salary bill but said the department would be unable to formulate recommendations until a report on the parcel post inquiry was in hand, probably in May.

The bill under consideration would increase the pay of 300,000 postal employees by from 20 to 30 per cent at an estimated annual cost of $122,000,000.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 3.—(By the Associated Press)—Submission to some general body, such as a congressional commission of proposals affecting salaries of postal employees, was recommended by Postmaster General New to Chairman Grist of the post office committee of the house, in a letter made public today.

Mr. New says that more than fifty postal bills are pending in congress and that it is probable that a readjustment of the service along lines provided in the bills would involve an increase annually of $150,000,000. In addition, a number of bills are pending proposing a reduction of postage rates.

C. P. Francis, president of the United National Association of Post-office Clerks, declared in a statement today that the clerks should not be disheartened over reports of opposition by President Coolidge as well as Mr. New to salary increases at this time.

Francis said salary increases should be provided through a revision of postage rates, especially on parcels post matter, which, he asserted, were "absurdly low," as compared with express charges.

Auto and Street Car Collide; Two Hurt

Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Tracy, 512 Waller street had a narrow escape from serious injury about 8:15 o'clock Sunday night when their Ford sedan and a main line street car figured in a collision at Ninth and Grimes avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Tracy were on their way home from Trinity church when Mr. Tracy drove north on Grimes to Ninth and stopped to allow an east bound car to pass. He then started up to cross the tracks and as he reached the west bound track the engine went dead.

Mr. Tracy looked around and saw a street car but knew he did not have time to get out and flag it. Their machine was under the street light and they believed the motorman would see them and stop in time to prevent striking the machine, which was pushed ahead about 35 feet. The car caught the machine about the rear right fender. Mrs. Tracy sustained a badly bruised shoulder and Mr. Tracy suffered a slight cut on his head.

This Is Record Week With W. W. Bauer

What is planned to be one of the biggest real estate campaigns ever conducted in this city, has been inaugurated by W. W. Bauer, First National Bank building. Patrons of the Times can readily appreciate the magnitude of the campaign by glancing at the big advertisement carried in this issue. In all Mr. Bauer has used four pages to acquaint the public with his great number of salable pieces of property. These properties run from some of the finest homes to brook lots, and is, perhaps, one of the most extensive campaigns ever inaugurated by any dealer in the state of Ohio.

Mr. Bauer conducted a similar campaign last fall and he established a record for his concern in the total amount of sales and the number of pieces of property sold. He believes that he will surpass his record of last fall, due to the fact that he not only has a large number of listings, but a greater variety of houses. He expects to be about the busiest man in the city during the life of the campaign and for several days following.

Hunter's loss is covered by insurance, but Mr. Elliott did not carry any insurance.

The cottage adjoining the Hunter property also owned by Mr. Hunter and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Roberts was only slightly damaged. The Gallia street and East End fire companies responded to the alarm.

A STORY OF LIGHTNING

King George III Was Opposed to Franklin's Device and Ordered Points Made Blunt.

France has probably done more than any other nation to make this world safe against lightning. This is the century year of a revised set of scales printed by the Academie des Sciences for the protection of buildings by conductors. The story of discovery, however, must be shared by other nations. Benjamin Franklin began the story.

"In 1745," he wrote, "I met at Boston a certain Doctor Spence, who came from Scotland. He performed some electrical experiments before me." Then a little later, while in Philadelphia, the great American received from Mr. Collinson of London, a member of the Royal society, his first toy glass tube. "I seized eagerly on the chance of reproducing what I had seen done in Boston."

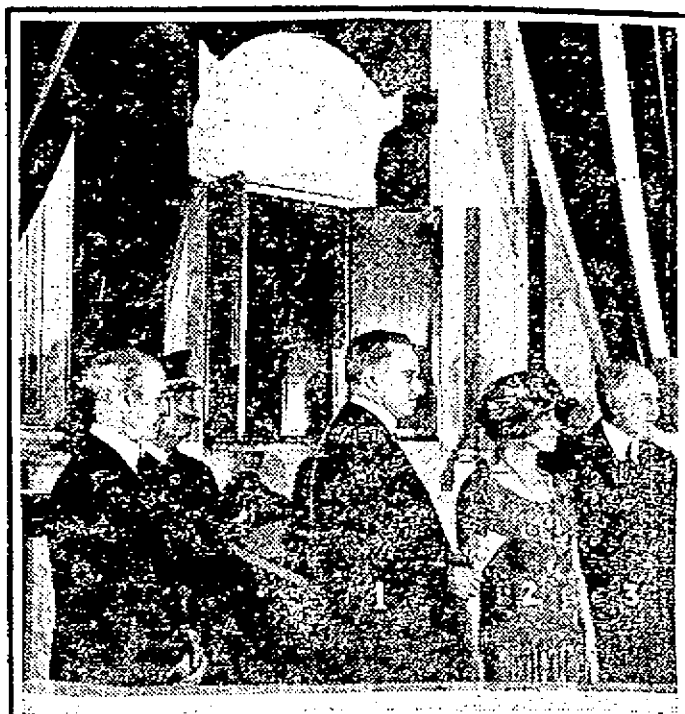

From these experiments to the famous kite was an easy step, and from the kite to the lightning conductor the magic leap. Of course, the lightning conductor had a hard struggle for recognition. It was received churlishly by George III, who took his revenge on Franklin by ordering the substitution of blunt ends for pointed ones on the New Palace conductors.

Sir John Pringle, president of the Royal society, was invited by the king to back him up. Sir John replied that the "laws of nature are not changeable at royal pleasure." The offended king suggested resignation and resign Sir John did. But the wits were on the side of the president:

While you, great George, for safety And sharp conductors change for blunt.

The nation's out of joint. Franklin a wiser course pursued. And all your thunder fearful view By keeping to the point. —London Chronicle.

ALL STAR BOXING SHOW TONIGHT WILL ATTRACT LARGE CROWD

Alex Noverly, Cincinnati, vs. Tommy Young, Dayton, 10 rounds, 135 pounds.
Kid Willey, Dayton, vs. "Bud News" Taylor, Columbus, 10 rounds, 115 pounds.
Copper Pence, Newport, Ky., vs. Johnnie Gordon, Dayton, 10 rounds, 124 pounds.
Babe Reeves, Olney, vs. Marco George, Portsmouth, 1 rounds, 120 pounds.

That's the menu for the boxing treat to be dished out to the fans this evening in Brunsart's Kingside, Sixth and Chillicothe streets, under the auspices of the Sportsman's Athletic Club.

The entire seating arrangement of the hall has been changed since the last fight and the fans will find it a much better layout. There will be three main aisles leading from the entrance to the seats, which have been arranged on the basis so that those in the back rows will be given full view of the ring without craning necks to look over some one in front of them.

The advance sale of seats, which have been on sale at the Smoke House since Thursday evening, has been the largest of any night that has been given by this club and indications point to a record crowd.

The card is certainly one of the classiest that this club's town has seen in some time. Three ten round goes by top-notch boys from the best fighting stables of Dayton, Columbus and Cincinnati are on the menu. A four round preliminary will give Babe Reeves that "come" from Olney a chance to show his wares against Marco George, who has appeared several times in the local ring and always left a good taste with the "hugs."

The first prelim will start at 8:30. Many fans from Chillicothe, Waverly, Ironton and Huntington are expected in the city tonight to attend the all-star boxing show the Sportsman's Athletic Club is staging in Brunsart Hall. The bill deserves capacity business as it is a corker.

Michigan Stages Greatest Thrill Of Present Season In Big Ten Basketball

ANN ARBOR, Mich., March 3.—Western Conference basketball competition has already witnessed many games this season. Play has been exceptionally keen, one-point victories have been decidedly numerous, and in many instances overtime periods have been necessary in order to determine the winner.

Despite all these nip-and-tuck tilts it is doubtful, however, if Big Ten court activities have seen a brush the equal of the recent Michigan-Minnesota fracas at Ann Arbor. For sensational work, excitement and thrills it stands in a class by itself.

Michigan had expected rather easy opposition from the Gophers. It was to be soft, picking—the Minnesota game.

At the start of the tilt it did look rather soft. The Wolverines hanging up six points before the Gophers had time to catch their breath. But from then on Minnesota was a rattler, tearing machine. It crept up on the Mother quoter, so that at half time the count was knotted at 12 points.

In the second period Michigan three times went into the lead on field goals, but on each occasion the Northwestern duplicated the feat, evening the tally. Then Minnesota started to draw away, and with but a few minutes left to play was ahead, 31 to 26. Obviously, it appeared all over but the shouting.

Rookies Look Good

Lookout for the Gams again this year. The rookies on the team are showing up so splendidly that Dave D. is going to have his troubles in deciding out the chair from the wheat. McGraw has two pitchers, who look exceptionally good and may supplant some of the regulars.

Leaves For Florida

Frank Oakes, well known N. & W. boilermaker, left Monday for Winter Haven, on his annual pilgrimage to that Southern City, where he will spend several weeks.

Trick Knee Made Over

Joe Dugan's trick knee, which gave him so much trouble last season, is said to be again as a result of an operation performed during the winter. A sudden twist would often cause the knee to slip out, Dugan suffering great pain at such times.

FIFTEEN WINS HIS GOAL

Despite the fact that he is just 40 years, Babe Adams says he hopes to turn in at least 15 victories for Manager Bill McKelvie of the Pirates. Adams has reached the stage where he must get plenty of rest between appearances.

JOINS INDIANS

CLEVELAND, March 3.—Raymond Egan, a 17-year-old minor league pitcher from Fort Worth, Texas, is the latest to join the Cleveland Indians in preliminary training at Hot Springs, Ark. He is the youngest yet to join the team.

Black Is Holdout

IRONTON, O., March 3.—A salary difference near the sum of $5000 stands between Carl "Lefty" Black and the Tulsa club. The local south paw has announced that he has no intention of signing a contract until the high wages of the western clubs comes to terms.

There isn't any doubt but that O. demands of Black should be met by the directors of the club. With the credit to every pitcher in the western league, Black was a top-notch among the entire lot.

What Is Doing In Chicago Tournament

CHICAGO, March 3.—Scores that won first prizes last year at Milwaukee have been secured with nearly a month to go in the twenty-fourth annual tournament of the American Bowling Congress but bowlers from many cities will continue today hopefully to smash away at prizes and records in the singles and doubles, with the five man teams to assail the pins on two shifts tonight.

Cincinnati, Youngstown, Portsmouth, Columbus, Lorain and Wadsworth, Ohio; Detroit, Escanaba, Jackson and Saginaw, Mich.; Richmond, Anderson, Huntington and Laporte, Ind.; Pittsburgh, Pa.; Buffalo, N. Y.; Des Moines, Ia.; St. Louis, Elizabeth, N. J., and Milwaukee, Wis., will be among the cities sending bowlers to the tournament today. After ten days of occupancy of the twenty-eight alleys, Chicago still has enough rollers left to send forward one entire shift of five man teams tonight.
